

The screenshot above represents my sent mail box.

You can see clearly that I communicate my lesson plans and resources across to my subject mentor often. This is to help my mentor monitor my progress and also to suggest improvements that can be made in my plan or resource.

So far my resources and plans have been successful and only on a handful of occasions has my mentor asked me to change or add things to my original plan.

This at least goes to show that I can plan lessons successfully and communicate with my peers successfully.
